

REMARKABLE STORY OF CHICKEN
LITTLE

PUBLISHED BY J. G. CHANDLER, ROXBURY, MASS.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1840, by J. G. CHANDLER, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of Massachusetts

REMARKABLE
STORY OF CHICKEN
LITTLE

"O Duck Luck!" says Hen Pen, "the sky is falling." "How do you know it?" says Duck Luck. "Chicken Little told me." "Chicken Little, how do you know it?" "O, I saw it with my eyes, I heard it with my ears, and part of it fell on my tail. O, come, let us run!"

Purchase by T. T. T. T. T.
20 Jan 1970

Did you ever hear of Chicken Little, how she disturbed a whole neighborhood by her foolish alarm?

1

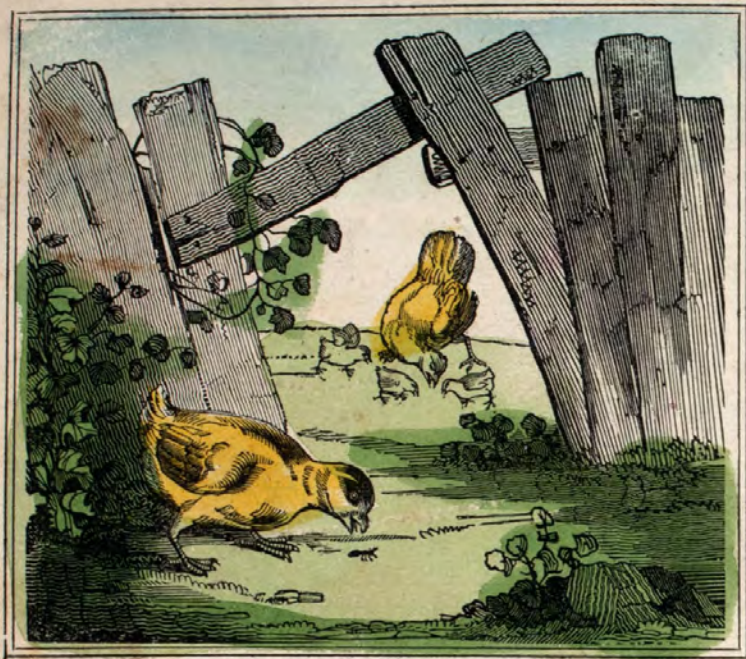

E. W. Cole
from the Grandfather 1884

Well, Chicken Little was running about in a gentleman's garden, where she had no business to be: she ran under a rose-bush, and a leaf fell on her tail; so she was dreadfully frightened, and ran away to Hen Pen.

2

Paradise Bay Tighe
20 Jan 1970

Did you ever hear of Chicken Little, how she disturbed a whole neighborhood by her foolish alarm?

E. W. Cole
for his Grandfather 1844

Well, Chicken Little was running about in a gentleman's garden, where she had no business to be : she ran under a rose-bush, and a leaf fell on her tail ; so she was dreadfully frightened, and ran away to Hen Pen.